The US government has detailed reporting requirements for US citizens concerning their financial assets outside of the US. Significant penalties can be applied for failure to comply. There are two aspects to this reporting:

1. US Treasury Department — Foreign Bank Account Reporting Form (FBAR).

- a. This form is now referred to as FINCEN report form 114. The threshold for filing this form is US$10,000. i.e. if you have more than $10,000 in any or all of your non-US accounts combined at any time during the year, you are required to file. This form can only be filed electronically. Details can be found at:

<http://bsaefiling.fincen.treas.gov/NoRegFBARFiler.html>

If you want us to prepare it for you, please provide us with the necessary information.

2. IRS — Form 8938.

- a. This form is part of the tax return and contains much of the same information as the FBAR but also includes financial assets owned directly. The threshold for filing is much higher. For US citizens residing outside of the USA, the threshold is $200,000. If you are filing your own FBAR report, please provide us with a copy to use in completing this form or else indicate here that you are certain you are below the filing threshold.

_____ I am below the filing threshold for form 8938.
